

Speaker Request Form

The Automotive Aftermarket industry provides a wide variety of exciting and fulfilling career opportunities. More than 220,000 people are employed, directly or indirectly in the automotive aftermarket industry. While the industry certainly has a great demand for automotive service technicians there are also numerous other areas of employment in the industry that you may not have thought of such as sales, marketing, technology, journalism, administration, accounting and consulting. Career opportunities are virtually unlimited.

If you are interested in informing your students about the exciting opportunities within the Automotive Aftermarket our association has a program that can help you. The Automotive Industries Association of Canada (AIA) offers a Speakers' Bureau service to schools. Let us know that you would like to have an industry representative speak with your students and we will provide a contact in your community that works in the aftermarket industry. AIA volunteer speakers can tell your students about the industry, as well as career options from their own experiences.

The automotive aftermarket industry wants to help students make informed career decisions about their future.
